Replay Resorts will begin constructing its second project -Yotelpad- as part of the reconfiguration of the Canyons Village at Park City Mountain Resort in the summer. The 144-unit condominium project will be located in the upper village.

Replay Resorts, the master developer of the Canyons Village at Park City Mountain Resort, recently announced the second project it will construct as part of the village's reconfiguration.

Last week, more than 50 people attended a private event at Canyons Village to learn more about the Yotelpad, a 144-unit project situated in the upper village. Todd Burnette, an independent consultant with Replay Resorts, said the project fits in with the reconfiguration because it will "encourage more people to stay at Canyons Village, filling the restaurants and shops."

"It helps create that après skiing experience," he said. "One thing that we have heard a lot of is that there is not really any après skiing experience. Yes, there is Main Street, but there is no real ski village where at the end of the day it's a party. That's not for everybody, but this helps create that space where there are more people."
